- Honeywell Outlook Reflects Strong Backlog And International Wins

MORRIS TOWNSHIP, N.J., Nov. 14, 2012 /PRNewswire/ -- Honeywell (NYSE: HON) today announced that Mike Madsen, President Defense & Space, will be presenting at the Honeywell Defense & Space Investor Day in Washington D.C. on Monday, November 19, 2012 at 10 a.m. EST.

Topics covered during the event will include a discussion of Honeywell's unique organizational structure, which includes a supply chain and engineering workforce common to its commercial and defense businesses and positions the company well in the face of future budget challenges. The company will also cover a deeper look at the U.S. and international defense budget landscape, sequestration scenarios, and 2013-2014 planning assumptions for the defense business.

"Honeywell has done a terrific job in expanding into international markets and attractive adjacencies that fit with our great positions in good industries approach," said Mike Madsen, President, Honeywell Defense & Space. "In addition, we're working closely with the Department of Defense (DoD) in providing retrofits and upgrades, which are improving efficiency and safety while extending the life of several proven platforms. We're also using our company-wide expertise in energy efficiency to help the DoD reduce operating costs. Through these programs and others, we're offering real solutions based on existing Honeywell technologies and programs to help the military cut costs while actually enhancing mission capability."

A real-time audio webcast of the presentation can be accessed at <http://www.honeywell.com/investor>, where related materials will also be posted prior to the presentation. The presentation materials will be in Adobe Acrobat format. A replay of the webcast will be available following the presentation at the same link listed above for 30 days.
